Kief-Joshua Vineyard Tour, Mar. 27, 2011

On Sunday, March 27 members of the Model A Ford Club traveled from Tucson to Kief-Joshua Vineyard in Elgin. Our procession was led by Chuck and Lynn Thim with 10 Model A cars in attendance. Upon reaching the vineyard we had 44 members, plus guests. After we entered the premise and gathered on the back patio we had omelets made to order. Many members chose to taste 5 different wines along with their omelets. Now with full stomachs and cheerful spirits we learned more about the art of wine making as we viewed the brewery area and we given more information from the vineyard owner, Keith. It was a lovely day and a good time was had by all.

Ford's Rustless Metal

NO; Henry Ford didn't invent it, we are hastily assured by Current Science (Columbus, Ohio); but he "saw it first" for the automobile industry. This paper proceeds to give us these details:

"The new product is 'Allegheny metal,' and it is an alloy of the finest steel with about 18 per cent chromium, 8 per cent nickel, and smaller amounts of manganese, silicon, phosphorus, and sulfur. Being steel, it, of course, has carbon in the mixture, too.

"An alloy, you remember, is an intimate combination of metals, to form new properties. There may be a chemical union, or a mere physical mixture, or combinations of both, in a complex alloy such as Allegheny metal. Not only the constituents, but the manner of their melting, mixing, and cooling, affect the properties of the final product. It is like making tasty soup—there must be the proper ingredients, and a good cook as well.

"Allegheny metal was invented in Germany during the Great War as a type of armor. The British discovered it about the same time. Only a few years ago were the methods of making it in large quantities worked out, then Henry Ford made a contract for most of the American production. He uses about 1,000 tons of it a month.

"You will see this metal on the bright parts of the newest Ford cars. It won't rust, won't tarnish, won't weather. Being one of the hardest forms of steel ever invented, it won't scratch. Nickel, once the premier of bright metal platings, is hardly used at all to-day in the automobile industry.

"This is the second time Henry Ford saw something first in the business he is in.

"Many years ago he picked up the broken axle of a wrecked French racing car, and found a part of it to be unusually hard. He had the metal analyzed, and discovered vanadium in the alloy. Up to that time it was a secret with the French, but soon all the 'Lizzies' had castings at the ends of their axles of finger-thinness—but they never broke!

"They were of vanadium steel—the first light, tough alloy to be used in automobile manufacture."
